IranConMin 2018 proves a success

Despite challenging circumstances, the Iranian trade fair for construction and mining IranConMin can look back on another successful event. The 14th staging of the trade fair for construction machinery and mining drew in about 15.000 visitors and around 200 exhibitors from seven countries. The companies taking part were particularly impressed with the high quality of visitors to the event.

The construction and mining sector traditionally plays an important role in Iran. IranConMin has been the biggest and most important trade fair in the industry for years, which brings together international exhibitors with the most important decision makers and experts in Iran. Despite the difficult situation at present, the majority of the international exhibitors rated this year's IranConMin as good to very good, and praised the high quality of visitor contacts in particular. The majority of them already plan to take part again next year – in some cases on a bigger scale to bolster their activities in Iran with a local presence.

Germany, China and Poland each had their own pavilion, where companies from the respective country were present at a joint stand. The Iran Mining Conference took place at the same time as the trade fair, where the aim was to encourage an exchange of knowledge between mining experts. This year, the focus was on finding the right balance between profitability and environmental and safety issues in mining.

The next trade fair is scheduled for 3 - 6 November 2019.
